

Picture of Grace

When I grow up, I want to be just like you, said Grace. That's very kind of you, said Grandpa Walt, but I can think of nothing better than you simply being yourself. Six-year-old Grace aspires to be an artist like her beloved grandfather Walt. Every week, she goes to his house and watches with great joy as he paints. Of course, not everyone appreciates Grandpa Walt's artwork. But as Walt tells Grace, some people appreciate the hard work while others just want the painting to be finished. But you can't be distracted by either group. When tragedy strikes, Grace takes it upon herself to honor Grandpa Walt in a special way. Through her act of love and kindness, Grace's family discovers an amazing secret about Walt's final, unfinished masterpiece.
