

My First Assistant: How to Outsource Your Cleaning, Cooking, and Almost Anything Else ... For Less Than $15 Per Day

My name is Jett Sterling. Im a busy young professional living in Columbus, Ohio. One morning last Spring, I sat up in bed and realized that my life was a mess. Piles of musty-smelling dirty clothes decorated my bedroom floor. My to-do list felt like an overflowing sink with a faucet stuck in the on position...many of the tasks as simple as replace kitchen light bulb or call cable company to update credit card. My fridge was empty except for beer, condiments, and some spoiled vegetables that I had purchased from a local farmers market with perfectly good intentions. Right now you may be thinking, What a lazy punk! But the truth is, I wasnt lazy at all... just overwhelmed. You see, I started a business at age 23 and it simply grew faster than I ever expected. In just 2 short years, I went from being a door-to-door cable salesman with all kinds of free time starting my own company and working 16 hour days to get it off the ground. I just had too much on my plate. I remember thinking, Someday, when Im a millionaire, I will hire a personal assistant to help me get my life in order. But last year, a random aha moment made me discover something that would quite literally change my life...and a lot sooner than I ever expected.
